Kraków becomes the first European Capital of Gastronomic Culture 2019

2018-10-05

In January 2018 the European Gastronomic Academy awarded Kraków the title of the European Capital of Gastronomy Culture 2019. The decision was announced at a press conference held at the Kraków City Hall on 28 June 2018.

“We are honored that the European Gastronomic Academy awarding the title of the European Capital of Gastronomy Culture 2019 for the first time, has just chosen Kraków.” Kraków mayor Jacek Majchrowski said at the conference. He stressed that the city deserves the title as it prides itself on good recipes, excellent products from local suppliers, popular culinary festivals and above all hospitable atmosphere.

Rafael Anson Oliart, President of the European Academy of Gastronomy, informed that the decision to choose Kraków as the first European Capital of Gastronomy Culture unanimous.
